

BOG GOLDENROD
Solidago uliginosa

Habitat

This long, yellow flower grows in marshes, bogs, and the edges of water bodies.

Food

Sun, soil, freshwater

Ecological Role

These flowers are an important food source for monarch, red admiral, and painted lady butterflies.

Reproduction

They are cross-pollinated by bees and butterflies

Where are they today?

They are not common in Manhattan